The Luling Tap.

While San Marcos is clamoring for a railroad to Luling she seems to overlook the fact that such a thing would be very detrimental to her business interests. Yet it is nevertheless true, and the reason is very obvious. Whenever a railroad is run from Luling to San Marcos, it will make a brisk little town of Martindale. Merchants can then sell goods as cheap in Martindale as they can in San Marcos, and all or a very great portion of trade that now comes from Martindale to San Marcos, will be kept at home. The country between Martindale and San Marcos is the banner agricultural section of this portion of Texas, and San Marcos reaps a rich harvest from that section as the matter now stands. This will all go against her whenever the railroad is built.

If San Marcos had as fine an agricultural country on the west as she has on the east, a railroad extended westward would be of great material benefit to her trade. But she has not. The country to the west is, as a general thing, unfit for agricultural purposes, therefore she can derive no great benefit from that direction. No! we do not think that San Marcos could be benefitted by a railroad to Luling, and we also think that her business men will come to the same conclusion after more mature deliberation.

We copy the above from the Kyle News of last week, for several reasons. First, we will remark, in order that our readers may properly appreciate the matter, that the News is now again conducted by the distinguished newspaper reporter, Jeff McLenore. The people of San Marcos and vicinity know him, and the deep interest and affection he entertains for them. They will be duly grateful for his condescension in instructing them as to their best interest, and pointing out the fatal mistake they are about committing in taking steps for a railroad to Luling. Nobody here, of course, is so competent to "lay down the law" on this subject as this Sir Oracle of Kyle. Accordingly, as will be seen, he talks to our leading men very much as an old time school-master would address the tow-headed urchins who came under his tuition—the Kyle News man assuming the same vast height of intellectual superiority.

In further reply to his article, we will say, that San Marcos has no fears of competition from any quarter. She is willing to "live and let live," regards her neighboring towns not as rivals, but friends, and is pleased to have them share in her prosperity. We are glad to find the News admitting that "the country between San Marcos and Kyle is the banner agricultural section of this portion of Texas," and we will add, that when the railroad reaches Martindale, if it were Kyle instead of San Marcos that had to enter into competition, she would indeed be in great danger of discomfiture. But San Marcos is willing for Martindale to entertain the views expressed by the Kyle News, and enjoy all the advantages which she may be able to derive from the proposed road, which will no doubt be very considerable.

We confess we are rather at a loss to understand what the Kyle News man means by speaking of the importance to San Marcos of a road to the west, and especially in saying "the country to the west as a general thing is unfit for agricultural purposes." We wonder if he knows which way west is! If he does he is fearfully wide of the mark, for the country from San Marcos to New Braunfels is scarcely second as an agricultural region to that down the river, and continues good as far as San Antonio. When he again assumes the judgment seat, will Sir Oracle of Kyle please explain what he means by stating that there is no country fit for agricultural purposes west of San Marcos?

In conclusion we must express our regret that the young giant of the Kyle News should have so remorselessly "sat down" on the budding hopes of San Marcos with respect to the desirability of the "Luling Tap." We trust he may yet relent and give our town a chance for his life, remembering the sentiment of Shakespeare:

"O! it is excellent To use a giant's strength, but it is tyrannous To use it like a giant."

A little too much rain.

See new advertisement of J. V. Hutchins, and call and look through his stock.

See advertisement of San Marcos Ice company.

See advertisement of Miss Cora Jones, dressmaker. We doubt not she is a proficient in her vocation.

There will be services at the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning and evening by the regular pastor.

The P. D. F. club will meet to-morrow night at the residence of Judge Wood provided the weather is favorable.

Western Texas can scarcely be said to be a particularly drouthy land the present season, thus far.

It is proposed to use the court house yard among other things for outdoor pastimes and festivals, but in its present condition all must see that it is entirely unfit for such use.

A steady gale from the Gulf has prevailed all the week thus far, echoing the "moaning of the sea." We remember nothing like it since the great storm which swept Indiana away, when a similar gale prevailed here. It undoubtedly means more rain, at least, so long as it continues.

San Marcos is to have a weekly paper upon a wooden press. It is not known whether when editors are scarce the column will be occupied by a stick of wood or not. We suppose that depends upon the caprice of its editor.—Dallas World.

The wooden press etc., did not materialize, and the projector has abandoned the idea. A wooden newspaper would suit some people we wot of down this way.

The Executive Committee appointed by the railroad meeting convened on Thursday afternoon last and the following business was had:

The members of the committee were assessed five dollars each to defray current expenses to be expended by order of the chair. W. D. Wood, B. B. Rose, and J. V. Hutchins were appointed a committee on general correspondence and Geo. T. McGehee, E. Northcraft, E. P. Reynolds and Ed. J. L. Green were appointed a committee to wait upon the business men and collect statistical reports. The forms for right of way and subscription papers presented by Judge Wood were approved. The secretary was ordered to write to the General Land Office for copies of maps of Caldwell and Granddapple counties. Mr. Geo. T. McGehee was requested to make a preliminary survey.

PERSONAL.

F. M. Johnson is at Hot Springs, Ark.

Miss Russell went to Austin Saturday, remaining over Sunday.

We had a pleasant call from Maj. Moon on Tuesday.

Miss Luneta McMeans and Henry Simpson were married on the 21st at the residence of her brother, H. A. McMeans.

Miss Bettie Coleman, of Austin, came over on Tuesday evening and staid till this morning.

Mr. Pate, Jr., now occupies Mrs. Durham's place, and Mrs. Bruce that of Mr. Carnahan.

Mr. Ponqurean and son are "roughing it" while improving a place in the San Marcos bottom.

Mr. and Mrs. Stratton and Mr. and Mrs. Cook, prominent people of Galveston, are in town and stopping at Prescott's.

Miss Sara Mitchell, of Edinburg, Mo., formerly a teacher in Kyle Seminary, attended the New Orleans exposition in March.

G. W. Buchanan, a graduate of Central College, Nashville, Tenn., an institution for colored people, and a practical printer, is on a visit to this place.

F. M. Alley has removed his shop to that lately occupied by G. W. Jones, who has gone out with a conveyance to sell saddlery he had on hand.

Thanks to Mrs. Major Dixon for a present of green peas, new Irish potatoes and lettuce, surely never before were such gardens seen in this country at this season of the year.

Rev. A. R. Norris, minister of the A. M. E. church of this place, adds manual labor to preaching, after the apostolic plan, being a practical shoe-maker. We commend his course.

Col. Jackman has qualified as U. S. Marshal, with Maj. Hutchins; D. A. Glover and Ed. J. L. Green as his deputies, and will soon establish his headquarters at San Antonio.

We notice that Prof. Richardson has placed an appropriate headstone at the grave of his daughter Lillie K. in the old cemetery. She died in the fall of 1873 aged 14 years and 7 months.

Two weddings in our town on Tuesday—pretty good considering the "hard times."

Although Miss Jessie Lyell has lost in part her poetical name, we doubt not she will continue to be spoken of as a fair Sample of the lovely ladies of San Marcos.

Mr. Fromme has shown us a handsome plat of his plan for improving the court house grounds, which he submitted to the commissioners' court at the last term.

To carry it out would be too expensive at this time, but we hope some day to see something like it carried into effect.

We learn from the Austin Statesman of Tuesday that A. L. Caswell, late of the Kyle News, has come to grief, having been arrested and jailed for stealing law books from the office of Smith & Trigg and selling them to a second hand bookstore. We are sorry that any newspaper man should ever come to such a pass, and especially are we sorry for the innocent wife and children of Caswell.

The committee appointed to work up the interests of the railroad from here to Luling have engaged the services of Prof. John E. Pritchett, of Cornell Institute, to draft a plat showing the line of the road, the number of acres of arable and grazing lands in Caldwell, Guadalupe, Blanco, Bays and Gillespie counties. He is engaged in the work, and it will be ready for exhibition in short time.

Mrs. Shippe, wife of Rev. H. Shippe, whose illness was referred to in our last, died, we believe on Friday, and her remains were sent back to her old home in New Jersey.

We were somewhat acquainted with the unfortunate lady, and were favorably impressed with her intelligence and deportment, which made her friends among those who had occasion to make her acquaintance. We deeply regret her untimely death.

Smith Bros. & Co., of Kyle, we learn have an improved circular saw frame by means of which, operated by hand 25 bee-hives and frames (the "Simplicity") ten frames to each hive, were made on the 8th inst. These frames are of superior workmanship and strongly constructed, more so than any others in use. These hives can be made as cheaply as any which are strong, and are much more durable, the material being cypress, while the Northern hives are of white pine.

One of the most interesting of bipeds is the "neighborly hen." Her "operations" are so provocative of peace and good will, that we are only surprised that her friendly offices are not more sought after and appreciated. We need not enlarge on the soothing influence she exercises over nervous and irascible Christians engaged in gardening, etc. But we merely set out to notice one of her achievements. Not long since the bodies lying in the Old City Grave Yard employed a man some days in filling up and smoothing down the graves. In twenty-four hours or so the neighborly hen and her sisters, led on by chancier, had leveled the work of days and scattered it in all directions. We can scarcely repress a smile to think how extremely diverting this must have been to all concerned, and how all must have internally blessed the neighborly hen!

MARRIAGE LICENSES issued since our last report to the 23d inst:

Henry Simpson and Luneta C. McMeans. J. P. Sample and Jessie Lyell. J. W. Pounds and M. F. Jones.

San Marcos is making an effort to have the Baylor university located there. There are few towns in Texas that can plead better inducements than San Marcos, and it is probable that she will be the lucky candidate.—Blanco News.

Mr. Peter Woods, living above fifteen miles west of town, after the rain last Tuesday morning, went in search of his work horses with the design of coming to this place. But soon found the best one struck dead by lightning, lying under a tree.—Blanco Star.

Mollie Shropshire, whose baby was murdered about a year ago, is in the city on a visit to Jeff Henson, who is in the county jail, having been convicted of the murder of the infant. Weekly, of San Marcos, a brother-in-law of Henson, is also here visiting him.—San Antonio Express.

Mr. Ed. Braden, so the Floresville Chronicle says, purposes the establishment of a paper mill on his ranch near San Antonio soon.

San Marcos should wake up to her greater privileges in this direction.

Grandma Harvey, late of Edinburg, has come to Dallas county to live with her daughter, Mrs. Liggitt. Mrs. Harvey is eighty-eight years old, and has been an honored resident of Edinburg for forty-five years. Her husband, Abalom Harvey, being the first settler of that town.

We clip the above from a north Missouri paper. Mrs. Harvey is an aunt on the paternal side of the editor of the Free Press. She has a sister yet living in Indiana, of about the same age, an older sister died there a few years since at the age of nine-three, and a brother over ninety also resides there.

Prof. Jordan and a considerable number from his Seminary were here on San Jacinto day.

Marriage in Upper Tendon.

The marriage of Miss Jessie Lyell was the society event of the week. Circumstances hindered our being present, but the ceremony was well represented. We tender our sincerest congratulations and best wishes. As to a more particular notice we feel that we cannot do better than copy the following San Marcos special to the San Antonio Express of Monday, dated on Tuesday:

Miss Jessie Lyell, of this place and Mr. J. Sample, of Calvert, were married by Pastor Gillett in the Methodist church, at 8 o'clock this evening. Mr. E. P. Reynolds had the honor of giving away the bride. Attendants upon the bride and groom were Miss Nora Franklin and Mr. E. P. Reynolds, Miss Mollie Taylor and Mr. George Franklin, Miss Sample, sister to the groom, and Mr. L. Landerdale. The church was very tastefully decorated with flowers. Just in front of the altar was a very pretty arch with green back ground in which appeared the following words, the letters being made of beautiful white flowers: "In holy wedlock." At either end of the arch were the initials of the bride and groom—"J. S." and "J. L." Just under the arch and over the heads of the couple was a floral bell. The bride looked her best.

After the ceremonies were concluded, they with a few chosen friends repaired to the house of Mr. Reynolds, the bride's brother-in-law, and on the arrival of the 10 o'clock train left for Austin, where they will remain to-night and to-morrow go to Calvert, which will be the future home of the bride. Old shoes were buried at them in great numbers and we trust they may bring good luck and prosperity to the happy couple.

San Jacinto Day, we are pleased to say, was more generally commemorated than we have ever known it to be before at this place. All business was suspended. The fire companies had a picnic at the reservoir which was quite enjoyable. Then they adjourned to the McKie place where the Picked Nine of Kyle and our home club played a game of base ball, resulting as follows: Kyle 25; San Marcos 12. Target shooting was also indulged in.

The ball given by the young men at Harper's Hall at night was well attended and passed off nicely. A handsome cake was contributed by Miss Kate de Graffenreidt, and at the close it was auctioned off to the most popular young lady. Miss Manie Peoples taking the prize with Miss Fannie Robinson close behind. The cake sold for $25, which will just fit the deficit in the finances of the fire department, who heartily thank the fair donor. They also thank Mr. Hall, of Mississippi, now visiting here, for favors during the day and night's proceedings.

Truly Magical.

From the Times-Democrat N. O., La., Dec. 17, 1884.

An inauguration day at the World's Industries bazaar, was separated from his trial Exposition a neatly attired child, daughter and lost among the crowd of all nations. The usual cries "mamma! mamma!" resounded through the building, but were not heard by the bewildered parent. She ran on in the wrong direction in search of her child. The latter hysterically bewailed his loss and was only appeased when a gentleman who happened to be passing, handed him one of the new miniature patent cameras bearing the inscription, "Eastman's Oil Company's Pain." This pretty hand had the effect of not only quieting the child but of restoring him to his anxious mother who at this moment appeared on the scene.

Literary Note From The Century Co.

A NEW DAY OF ISSUE FOR "THE CENTURY."

The editions of The Century Magazine are no longer to become necessary either to go to press at an earlier date or to postpone the day of issue. The latter alternative has been accepted. The April number, the edition of which was 225,000, was delayed until the 25th of March. The May number, edition 250,000, will be issued the first day of May, thus inaugurating with the first number of the thirtieth volume a change which has long been considered desirable by the publishers, and the public. Future numbers of The Century Magazine will be issued the first day of the month of which each bears date.
